

Sovereign debt sustainability analysis: Risk management, COVID effects, and climate change

Stavros Zenios, University of Cyprus,

Stavros is professor of finance and management science at University of Cyprus, Adjunct professor at the Norwegian School of Economics and Senior Fellow at the Wharton School, USA, He has a PhD at Princeton University in 1986.

He published more than 150 scholarly articles in some of the leading journals in the fields of finance, management science and operations research. His specialization is financial risk management.

He served on the Board of Central Bank of Cyprus and two terms as President of UNICA-Universities of European Capitals and Rector of University of Cyprus.

GIOVEDÌ 18 Novembre 2021 ore 17:00

Sala 34 Dipartimento Scienze Statistiche